

TEACHING AND EXHIBITION OPPORTUNITY
SAM FOX SCHOOL OF DESIGN & VISUAL ARTS
HENRY L. AND NATALIE E. FREUND VISITING RESIDENT PROGRAM
Program Proposal

The Sam Fox School of Design & Visual Arts at Washington University in St. Louis invites nominations for the Henry L. and Natalie E. Freund Visiting Resident for spring 2013. The fellowship is open to a practicing artist, architect, or designer currently unaffiliated with the School, nominated by a member of the Sam Fox School faculty.

Position:

Fellows are required to be in residence for two months in spring 2012, during which they will be expected to work with faculty and students in the College and Graduate School of Art or the College of Architecture and the Graduate School of Architecture & Urban Design by team-teaching a course, offering a graduate seminar, or sponsoring an independent study.

The residency will culminate in an exhibition of the fellow's work, preferably but not necessarily a site-specific installation, at the School's Mildred Lane Kemper Art Museum from February-April 2013. A portion of the work may be produced during their residency at the School.

The nominating faculty member will work with the fellow and Museum staff to organize and curate the exhibition. A public lecture, in the form of a presentation, panel discussion, or gallery talk, held in conjunction with the exhibition is an expected component of the fellowship. This position requires a significant national and international exhibition record, teaching experience, and an MFA or equivalent.

Washington University in St. Louis is a medium-sized, independent university counted among the world's leaders in teaching and research. The University draws students from all fifty states and approximately 120 nations. Over the years, twenty-one Nobel laureates have been associated with the University.

Sam Fox School of Design & Visual Arts is comprised of the College of Architecture, Graduate School of Architecture & Urban Design, College and Graduate School of Art, and the Mildred Lane Kemper Art Museum. The goal of the Sam Fox School is to become a national model for the creation, study, and exhibition of multidisciplinary and collaborative work. The Sam Fox School offers rigorous art and architecture education at both the undergraduate and graduate levels within the context of an independent, nationally prominent research university.

Mildred Lane Kemper Art Museum is the art museum of the Sam Fox School and is committed to developing and preserving its fine art collection and continuing its legacy of collecting significant art of the time; providing excellence in art historical scholarship, education, and exhibition; inspiring social and intellectual inquiry into the connections between art and contemporary life; and engaging audiences on campus, in the local community, across the nation, and worldwide.

Compensation: Housing, studio space, and transportation to and from St. Louis will be provided, as well as an honorarium.

Nomination Procedure: A letter of nomination along with a CV (including exhibition history) and images of work of the proposed Fellow should be submitted to:

Sabine Eckmann, Chair
Sam Fox School Exhibition Committee
c/o John Foughty
Campus Box 1214

Application Deadline: Nominations must be received by October 1, 2011. Once the Fellow has been selected, an exhibition proposal will be due upon acceptance, at which time schedules will be established for exhibition design, signage, and publication plans.
